The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

Retirement: A Growing Problem

In the current issue of the Lemon Grove Kiwanigram, school principal Jim Terry had asked a provocative question: 'When should you retire? 65? 70? 55? Never?"

Being a good teacher he answered with more questions. "Who should decide? Government? Individual worker? What do people want? When do you want to retire?

"65 was picked when Social Security was established in 1935 Bismark earlier had declared it a good age for Germans social benefits to begin but few workers lived to that ripe, old age then. What do people do when they retire at 50? How do you view retirement? With pleasure or with dread?"

Most service clubs are made up of mature business and professional people who take part in community activities because they have the will and the energy even though many are near retirement age.

Terry's item recalled an article by John W. Gardner which passed over my desk earlier. Gardner is former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare as well as the founding chairman of Common Cause.

Gardner says:

Scientists have played a benevolent trick on us. They have presented most people with a great many active years of life beyond "retirement," but they have not told us how we might spend those years in a satisfying way — nor how to survive inflation economically.

You can't generalize. Some like the rocking chair, some like hobbies, some like travel. But a great many older people would like to work and get paid for it.

They want some useful activity to fill their time, to keep in touch with other people and to bring home a paycheck. The paycheck may be absolutely essential, but even if it isn't it gives them the satisfying feeling that they are still worth something in the labor market.

It is inhumane to ignore millions of older people who would like to be useful but are not allowed to.

We must work toward a fully accepted social custom of further careers for those past the mid-point in life. It's feasible. Policemen, firemen, military people and others quite commonly take retirement in their early 50s — often in their 40s — and launch a second career. Others who retire at 65 become successfully self-employed. Most doctors and lawyers pay no attention to the age 65 milestone.

We must assume that this will become the rule rather than the exception. We will need a far greater number of full-time, part-time and flexible-schedule jobs for older people. We will need to become far more skilled in using volunteers for social and civic work, providing them with rewards of status and recognition.

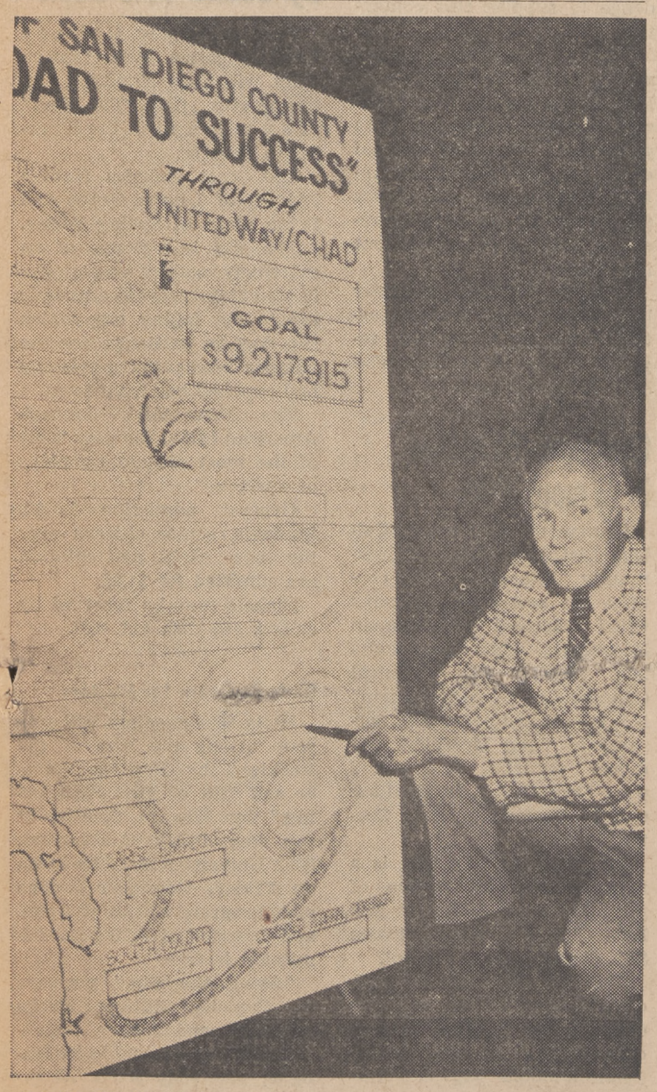
Above all, we will need counseling arrangements in corporations, unions and social agencies to help those terminating one career to find their way to the next stage of the journey.

A "further career" need not involve a change of occupation or even institution. It may simply involve another pattern of work activity, or another assignment. How great for a 50-year old employee of a large company or a government agency to be able to go — without embarrassment — to the institution's mid-career counseling center and say "Look, I'm stale on the job I'm doing. How about a new assignment?"

Or, "I've learned everything there is to know about the job I'm now doing. Give me an assignment where I can begin to learn again."

The need for such middle-life concern won't disappear in later life. We just ignore it.

And that, my friends, is a big problem that has a solution. And it would not become as expensive and futile as our inane welfare programs.



ROAD TO SUCCESS — Hal Logan, East County chairman for the UNITED WAY/CHAD Combined Campaign, indicates his approval of the $262,671 raised to far by the drive's East County volunteers. Logan reported the contributions to date — 85.7% of the $306,500 East County Goal — at the recent UNITED WAY/CHAD report meeting.

Council to Hear Appeals On DoT Rulings Monday

The Lemon Grove City Council will hear 3 appeals from rulings by the Department of Transportation at its bi-weekly meeting Monday night at 7:30. The meeting will be at the Lemon Grove Education Center, Kempf and Lincoln sts.

Daniel Joynt is asking the Council to relieve him of the obligation thrust upon him in the matter of a fire hydrant; Richard Wood wants relief from street improvement demands made regarding property on Adams st., and Mary Ellen Pitard is objecting to a DoT ruling that she put in sidewalks and curbs and cut down trees in the process along Golden ave—a street which is almost fully developed in a rural atmosphere.

Wood dropped his appeal for an undisclosed reason after filing it.

At the last November meeting, the council chambers were filled with citizens upset by DoT rulings. The appeals will probably draw a full house again.

Public hearings will also be heard on utility undergrounding in 2 areas. One is along Imperial south from Broadway to Eldora st. The other is along Jamacha rd. to Carlisle dr.

There should be other items on the agenda before the end of the week.

Applications Available For State Senate Posts

The California Senate Fellowship Program is accepting applications for the 1978-79 legislative year.

12 fulltime, paid fellowships are awarded annually by the Senate Rules Committee.

The program will run from October 1978 through June 1979 with an option to extend up to 3 additional months. The application deadline is February 1.

Successful applicants will be assigned either to the office of a Senate member or standing committee.

Duties will include bill analysis, research and other administrative work as required by the Senate member or chairman of the committee to which fellows are assigned.

Fellowship will conform as closely as possible to actual Senate staff experience.

Fellowships are awarded by the Rules Committee after a personal interview by selection panel members of the Senate Fellowship Program.

College graduation is required but applications are also welcome from graduating seniors who will complete undergraduate studies by the commencement of the program.

Persons interested in the program should submit applications well in advance of the deadline advised State Senator Jim Mills at whose office applications are available.

"Applicants should be precise in completing the forms since they are an important first step in the review process," said.

His office is at 815 3rd ave., Chula Vista — telephone 427-7812.

Fire Severely Damages 7-Bedroom S.V. Home

Fire, which may have been started by an electrical short, caused extensive damage to the $75,000 7-bedroom home of Richard Allyn, a carpet cleaning firm owner of 9346 Crest in Spring Valley.

Spring Valley Fire Protection District Inspector Rick Sherard, said that units responding at 2:30 p.m. Thanksgiving Day to calls from the Allyn's neighbors, had the fire under control at 2:35. The entire roof was involved when fire units arrived.

The Allyns have 4 children but no one was home when the fire occurred. The structure was on the market at $100,000 recently, Inspector Sherard said.

Injuries were suffered by Captain Bill Williams when he was struck across the back of his helmet and his neck when a ceiling rafter fell.

Fireman Pat Sumro was hospitalized because of smoke inhalation, it was reported.

Thief Takes Shotgun

Someone broke into the 1969 Ford pickup parked in the driveway of Garry WaWyne Moore of 1302 Elkelton blvd., Spring Valley, by way of a wind-wing, and took away a 12 guage Mosburg single shot shotgun with a 28" barrel.

The loss occurred while he was involved in routine household activities. The value of the gun, he said, was $175.

L.G. City Gets $54,000 In State-Collected Funds

Lemon Grove, California's 414th city, made its appearance on the November 25th apportionment report of the Office of the Controller.

Lemon Grove share of three tax funds were listed: Highway Users' Tax Fund (HUT) $23,708; Cigarette Tax Fund (CT) $4,196, and Motor Vehicle License Fee (MVL) $26,616. Previously, the $54,500 refund would have gone to the County.

A total of $75 million HUT funds was distributed to cities, counties and state of which $42½ million was for state highways and $30,000 to the Bicycle Lane account.

These funds, as promised by leaders for incorporation, are coming to the City of Lemon Grove for the first time and will pay for many of the costs of operation. HUT funds must be used for roads, however.

RACER — Frank R. Ball of Lemon Grove won his trophy in the Baja 500 recently in the 2-wheel drive production classification. A major concern in this class is keeping the vehicle together. His 1970 Datsun, a veteran of many races, is being retired.

Few Cars Survive Production Class In Baja 500 Says Lemon Grove Racer

Can a 46-year old electronic engineer find happiness in the grueling Baja 500 off-road races?

Frank R. Ball, an engineer with Wavtek Electronics in San Diego, proves you can. He's been racing 2½ years and his only regret is that he didn't do it sooner.

Ball, who lives at 2544 Pergl st. in Lemon Grove, with his wife, Josie, and their 2 teenagers, was first in the recent Baja 500 in which 9 cars competed in the 2-wheel drive production car class.

The course is so tortuous that only two cars completed the race of the 9 starters. Two teams of 2 alternated and finished the race in 23 hours.

Ball got the trophy, a purse and contingency money which amounted to approximately $2,700. 1976 was a good year for Ball.

He won the Baja 500 in June and was second in the Baja 1,000 and won the Riverside Raceway off-road event.

"Rules are specific for the production class," Ball said. "You must use all of the original parts, all in the same place. But you can add whatever you wish to make it stronger. I took out 600 pounds of metal and put back 800. The 1970 Datsun weighed 2,00 pounds originally. It weighed 2,600 for the race.

"The trick isn't always to win. Just to finish is an accomplishment. I've finished in 7 of the 9 races I've been in. 9 off-road races is more than a unit body can sustain. The old Datsun has had it. I'm trying to line up a newer car and start all over again."

He said that the next car will again be a Datsun. "I'm familiar with that make."

He said that he has long been interested in the problem of physics. "You have to re-design the front end to take the off-road punishment. You have to improve on what the manufacturer produces. You've got to make it stronger using as little metal as possible," he said.

The trick is to take a car designed for highways and make it strong enough to even finish an off-road race. It becomes an engineering and survival challenge more than one of sheer speed. Lighter, faster cars can make the Baja course in 14 hours which took us 23.

"Quick reaction is mandatory in off-road racing. Poor judgement or slow reaction can wash the car out. You must also know exactly how much the car can take," Ball said.

Until now, 2-wheel drive production cars were the slowest of 12 classes in the Baja. Now they rank 10th, mostly because of Ball's engineering ability.

Next on the Ball's program the Parker, Arizona race in February. Then in June comes the Baja 500 again.

The Balls have been Lemon Grove residents for 15 years. The youngsters, Letata, 17 and Kitty, 14 attend Helix High school.

County Property Taxes Deadline December 12

Deadline for payment of the first installments of 1977-78 property taxes is December 12, County Tax Collector James E. Jones said.

He said that such a short time remains before property taxes are due that some last-minute reminders for the county's half-million or so parcels of property are in order.

Jones said any owner who has not yet received some kind of tax statement should contact the collector's office at once and ask for one.

He said that state law does not recognize failure to receive a tax bill as grounds for excusing the 6% penalty charged on delinquent installments, and he urged property owners to mail their payments early enough to insure their being postmarked on or before the deadline date.

The tax collector stressed that the penalty is a straight 6% charge figured on the amount of the installment and is not prorated on a per-annum basis.

Jones also suggested that people examine their tax statements to make sure any exemption to which they are entitled appears on the bill. He said this was especially important to senior homeowners who plan to postpone taxes.

The new senior citizens' property tax postponement law requires that a property be receiving at least a partial homeowners' exemption before the owners can qualify for postponement of taxes.

The last day to pay first installment without penalty is December 12. This deadline is two days later than usual because Dec. 10 falls on Saturday this year. The second installment deadline is April 10.

Property owners who need a tax bill or more information about paying their taxes should call the tax collector information number: 236-3121. The homeowners exemption number is 236-3072. The offices are located in Room 162 of the County Administration Center, 1600 Pacific Highway.

Deputies Trap 2 Tire Thieves

Sheriff's deputies cornered two young men who were charged with taking steel-belted radial tires from the rear storage lot of the B.F. Goodrich Co., at 7285 Broadway near midnight Thanksgiving.

The suspects fled when they observed officers approach the fenced area where they were busily examining tires for size and condition. Both jumped the fence with officers in pursuit.

One made his way back to a parked Ford pickup but his way was blocked by a deputy in a patrol unit who saw him enter the car on a run.

One suspect, 18, lives on Imperial ave., Lemon Grove. The other gave Camp Pendleton as his address.

Both were listed as white. A third young man may have been involved but officers couldn't locate him.

Police recovered 7 tires valued at $210.

Husband, a Compulsive Liar

Q. I've had a problem with my husband now for 10 years. He has seen 12 psychiatrists, and we have separated at least once a year.

He has beaten me, as well as his ex-wife and children. But worst of all he is a compulsive liar and has a strong compulsion to please everyone but me and his family.

Can you please help? The psychiatrist said no one can help him but himself. He has lied since he was a child. Is it too late for him to change?

It is never too late for anyone to change. But change cannot take place unless the individual really wants to become a different person.

We have seen so many people find a new life through religious faith that we believe any human being can become a new person.

A suggestion might be that you try to bring your husband into contact with this personality improvement force by getting to know people who have themselves been changed.

Incidentally, if you yourself have a vital faith it might might just convey itself to him.

We have a booklet, "The Power To Change Your Life," that has helped others with questions such as yours, and a copy of it is on its way to you.

Anyone else wishing a free copy may receive one by writing to us at Box 500, Pawling, NY 12564.

Wife Doesn't Love Him

Q. Regarding your column to the person who wrote in about "doesn't love husband any more," this sounds very definitely to be my wife. We are having difficulty, and there are two children involved.

Myself, I do not want a divorce or separation. I have seen a counselor but she refuses. I can't make her go, but running away is no way to have a happy life.

I never thought the woman I love dearly with my heart would say, "I don't love you." But it happened. I don't believe that two people really stop loving each other, and God doesn't want any marriage broken. I would appreciate any suggestions.

A. There are definite, practical ways to woo a woman. Some are kindness, doing nice, interesting things for her, telling her how beautiful she is, and just acting happy and pleasant.

Make it exciting for her to be with you. Help make life interesting for this apparently dispirited wife.

Recap how you got her to love you in the first place, and do all that over again. Try and be romantic like you once were. It works wonders.

Father Doesn't Like Boy Friend

Q. My father doesn't like my boy friend at all, and the thing is he's never even met him. He won't even give him a chance. My father says my boy friend is lazy.

I'm afraid to have a boy friend over because of what Dad has said he'd do to him. The only time me and my boy friend get to see each other is at school.

What can I do to get my dad to at least meet him and give him a chance? If I don't find a solution soon I'm going to go crazy.

A. It seems that your father has heard something about your boy friend even though he hasn't met him. Fathers often seem unreasonable when they are actually trying to save their children from heartache.

As yourself if your father is opposed to just this boy, or to any boy.

Talk with him about his reasons. Listen — really listen to what he has to say.

If you know your boy friend is honest and decent and you like him, you can stand up to your father in a kindly but firm manner. If you make this effort to communicate, chances are you can bring your boy friend home without too much unpleasantness.

'Guiding Star' Is Theatre's Holiday Show

"Star of Bethlehem", a multi-media presentation, will start Friday at the Rueben H. Fleet Space theatre in Balboa Park.

The production explores several phenomena which might have been interpreted as the star which guided the Wise Men on the first Christmas Eve.

Since the Space Theater's computerized equipment is able to project the stars and planets as they appeared on any date in the past, audiences will see a re-creation of the heavens as they were almost 2,000 years ago.

San Diego is unique as the site for this type of program because it is virtually the same latitude as Bethlehem and has about the same climate. Although many people think of snow falling on Bethlehem the night of Christ's birth there is no scientific evidence to support this contention.

The production shows scenes of the Bethlehem skyline across the 76 foot hemisphere screen. Zoom and slide projectors, three dimensional effects, the starball which projects 10,000 stars, and planet projectors all are used to recreate this mysterious event in history.

Viewers will see and hear how biblical scholars and astronomers have worked together to try to explain "The Star of Bethlehem".

Coastline Revealed In G'mont Film

Grossmont Community College District's Office of Community Education will continue its series of programs titled "Natural and Human Resources" when the Audubon Wildlife Film. "Central California's Coastline Plain" is screened and personally narrated by Greg McMillan, Audubon naturlist, at 2 and 8 p.m., December 7, in the East County Performing Arts Center, El Cajon.

The point of this film is a minute, unspoiled section of the California coast in San Luis Obispo County, between San Simeon and Point Sal.

This narrow strip of land, often cloaked in fog, supports one of the richest wildlife communities in the world. Crimson-footed pigeon guillemots fill the multitudes of small caverns and holes that cover the cliff faces, and cormorants by the thousands nest and find food here.

The price of admission is $1.

The rising costs of facilities and equipment have caused the club to seek outside support. In addition to donations, the rowers have organized several fund raising efforts.

The MBRA Christmas tree lot, at Camino de la Reina and Mission Center rd., will be open daily 6:30 a.m.-10 p.m.

When the poor and needy seek water, and there is none, and their tongue faileth for thirst I the Lord shall hear them, I the God of Israel will not forsake them.

I will open rivers in high places, and fountains in the midst of the valleys: I will make the wilderness a pool of water, and the dry land springs of water.

Psychologist of La Mesa

Dr. Barbour's Book Is Interesting, Racy

By Max Goodwin

Dr Richmond Barbour's newly published book, DEAR DR. BARBOUR, (Joyce Press) is an interesting collection of matters which plague today's society.

Fans of Dr. Barbour's Saturday column — YOU AND YOUR PROBLEMS in the San Diego EVENING TRIBUNE; ANN LANDERS, same publication daily, and DEAR ABBY, daily in the S.D. UNION will thoroughly enjoy his 190-page book.

Those who do not regularly read advice columns can profit from Barbour's work — if they fit into any of the 16 classifications contained therein. It should be noted that his book is more readable than newspaper advice columns — including his own—since there were less contraints on him in his book.

He says he answers questions in his book that are "off limits" in family newspapers and that he does. Some are downright racy!

He measures up to advance publicity that declares the book has something for everyone — promiscuity, prostitution, infidelity, drugs, public nudity and incest" and other matters in which the average person might become involved. (Don't blame us if you're not average.)

Even if you can't get involved, you can still enjoy Dr. Barbour's book. He doesn't write from some ivory tower in some exotic locale. He is a La Mesa psychologist who brought some degree of attention to the LA MESA SCOUT during the regime of Sheridan Hegland, formerly editor and publisher of that newspaper.

I confess that Dr. Barbour's philosophy doesn't line up with mine in solving problems of the oversexed, undersexed, mixed sex and other flakes of all colorations who inhabit the County of San Diego.

I found the book easy to read and thoroughly enjoyable. It is recommended for those who prefer viewing problems of others than making problems of their own.

I took time to read Dr. Barbour's column in the TRIBUNE the week that I commenced to do this critique.

The Saturday column misguided a woman with a problem. He gave an answer that must have satisfied her but in so doing, he missed an obvious solution. I have provided that solution at the end of this critique.

A woman had asked:

I got married last July. My husband is turning out to be the original football nut. He is 24. I am 23.

What happened yesterday illustrates my problem. We returned home from shopping. We both felt amorous. We retired to our bedroom, and got ready to make love.

'Suddenly he remembered the football game on TV. He grabbed his bathrobe, rushed to the living room, and turned on the set. I called to tell him I was frustrated. He didn't understand. He suggested that I wait for him.

He said he would run to me during the commercials, to continue our activities. Can you imagine a man like that? I yelled NO,' but he didn't hear me. He was absorbed in that lousy football game.

Are other husbands as addicted to football as he is? Or is my man undersexed? Could be that he has lost interest in me already?"

Barbour explained ". . . your husband takes the cake. For a young man to prefer TV football to making love is far-out . . .

". . . he is a monomaniac on the gridiron sport.

"Millions . . . remain glued to the tube each weekend. Wives generally learn to live around their obsession."

He recommended that the couple read books . . . THE SENSUAL WOMAN and THE SENSUAL MAN.

Disagreement

We thoroughly disagree with Dr. Barbour on this specific column. Doesn't he know that the fan's favorite team plays only once a week. Miss that and he lives a week of sports vacuum. All of his cronies will talk about the game. Other matters fade into conversational insignificance. As a psychologist, Dr. Barbour should know this and advise properly.

He also recommends reading SEXUAL MALE and SEXUAL FEMALE, two books on the subject described in the titles, That is poor information and Dr. Barbour should know better. Those books won't solve the woman's problem.

He should have prescribed reading DON CORYELL: WIN WITH HONOR. Coryell makes it perfectly understandable that anyone who cannot rise from the conjugal bed to view his favorite football team is the one who most likely needs Barbour's advice.

But don't write to Dr. Barbour. He's anti-football. He probably isn't jock enough to understand this thesis.

Unfortunately, Don Coryell's team, the St. Louis Cardinals, lost their Thanksgiving Day game to the Miami Dolphins 55-14. It was the kind of game that should make every Card fan wish that he'd stayed in bed.

Regardless, get DEAR DR. BARBOUR. It is easy to read and enjoy.

DEAR DR. BARBOUR is published by San Diego's Joyce Press and is available at better book stores.

So is WIN WITH HONOR.

This Week's RECIPE

Schnitzel A La Holstein

Schnitzel Holstein is a classic Viennese dish that is enjoyed by diners the world over. The name 'schnitzel" is synomymous with "veal cutlet".

Prepared a la Holstein means the dish is served with fried eggs, anchovy fillets crossed on top.

The Viennese enjoy at least dozen ways of garnishing their "schnitzels" but perhaps the most favored way is "Holstein".

Schnitzel A La Holstein

8 boneless pork chops
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 egg
2 tablespoons flour
1½ cups cracker meal
½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup oil
8 fried eggs
16 anchovy fillets
3 tablespoons drained capers
Parsley and lemon slices.

Pound pork between two thicknesses of wax paper until very thin to form cutlet. In a bowl, beat salt, pepper, egg and flour until well blended. Add cutlet and toss gently until is is well coated. Dip cutlet into cracker meal, pressing firmly to make crumbs adhere. Let dry in a single layer on wax paper for 20 minutes.

In a large skillet, heat butter and oil until it sizzles. Fry cutlet slices a few at a time for four to five minutes on each side or until richly browned. Place cutlets on a platter, top with fried eggs, a criss-cross of anchovies and a sprinkling of capers. Garnish with parsley and lemon slices. Makes eight servings.

Chargers Try For Best Season In Stadium Game Sunday at 1

The San Diego Chargers bring their shining 6-5 record home to the Stadium Sunday in a 1 p.m. tilt with the Cleveland Browns. Objective: 7-5.

The team sweated out a 30-28 victory last week over Seattle to rise above the .500 level for the first time since the 77th game of the season (This is the 12th). The Chargers have not been above .500 at this point in the season since 1968.

By winning Sunday, Tommy Prothro's team will be assured of a .500 season and would be the most successful since Prothro assumed command in 1974. 6 victories is the most won by any Charger team since they joined the National Football League as part of the AFL-NFL merger.

Cleveland is 6-5, losing 9-0 to the Rams last week.

Last week Dan Fouts played his first game of the season and completed 19 of 26 passes for 199 yards and a touchtown.

After Seattle closed from 30-21 to 30-28, Fouts led San Diego on a 14-play, 58-yard advance that took the Chargers from their 20 to the Seahawks' 22 and used the final six minutes, 55 seconds of play. "I wondered how I would do," said Fouts. "If you get great protection, you're going to throw well. I had time and our receivers did a great job of getting open."

The Chargers' total offense of 323 yards was their highest since a 342-yard effort against Kansas City in the sixth game of the season and marked the third straight week they have amassed more than 300 yards. Running back Rickey Young gained 80 yards in 19 carries to give him 163 yards rushing in the last two games. Young had gained 173 yards in the 5 previous games.

Punter Is Tight End

With tight end Bob Klein idled with a leg injury, punter Jeff West became the Chargers' back-up tight end. Starter Pat Curran lost his shoe on the third play of the game and West was summoned. He caught a pass for a three-yard gain on the next play.

"I never heard of the play until I was in the huddle," said West. "Fouts told me what to do as we were going to the line of scrimmage." West was supposed to release from the line and run a pass pattern in the flat, but he staked back and blocked the Seahawks' defensive end. Fouts still found West in the flat, however, for the first reception of Jeff's career. "It was right in my stomach," said West. "My grandmother could have caught it."

West started as a tight end for two seasons at the University of Cincinatti, but he has been a punter since coming into the NFL as a rookie with St. Louis in 1975.

Jack-in-the-Box restaurants will provide a $2 discount coupon toward an $8.50 upper level reserved end zone seat for the Cleveland game. Fans may obtain the coupon with any $2 purchase at Jack-in-the-Box restaurants in San Diego County. The Chargers ticket office will be open from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Tickets are available in all price ranges for the Cleveland and Pittsburgh games. Tickets also may be obtained at Bill Gamble's Men's Wear stores and Select-a-seat outlets.

Radio Station KSDO (1130) will cover the game in the San Diego area. Pat Curran's NFL Weekend begins at 10:50 a.m. Chargers' Talk, featuring Bobby Chandler and Bruce Walton, begins at 11 a.m. The Tommy Prothro Show is at 12:35 p.m. and game preview at 12:50 p.m. Jerry Gross, John DeMott and Scotty Gregory will be at the microphones.

NBC sports will televise the game to Cleveland and affiliate stations. It will not be shown locally.

The Chargers play their final regular season game of 1977 Sunday, Dec. 18 against the Pittsburgh Steelers at 1 p.m.

Riverside's '78 Opener Has $30,000 Stock Purse

Riverside International Raceway's traditional season-opening 300-kilometer sportsman stock car race will be an expanded $30,000 event for both sportsman and modified cars when it is held on Saturday, January 21, it was reported by Raceway president Les Richter.

The new NASCAR sportsman-modified stock car road race will be called the Stock Car Products 300. It will be the preliminary to the 1978 inaugural for the NASCAR Winston Cup Grand National series — the Winston Western 500 on January 22.

Announcement of the new race format has ended months of speculation in the racing fraternity about the future of modified stock car racing at Riverside, which staged its first race for the popular modified cars last June.

Sportsman stocks differ from modified in many ways technically, but their prominent differences are in appearance. Modifieds run to Cameros, Vegas, Pintos, Gremlins and Aspens, because they are based on a 108-inch wheelbase, 3,100-pound formula. Late model sportsman stock cars approximate compact to intermediate models of 112 to 115-inch wheelbase weighing no less than 3,300 lb.

Richter said there will probably be some modifications with the rules to make both classes of cars more equal for the Stock Car Products 300, and further to encourage sportsman racers there will be special prize money for the top three sportsman finishers.

Richter characterized the addition of modifieds to the race as "the wave of the future" in stock car racing in the West.

"Already in Southern California there is weekly competition for modified cars at such popular tracks as Ascot, Saugus and Cajon Speedways and frequent competition at places like Mesa Marin, South Bay, and Speedway 605," Richter said.

"Our first experience with the modifieds at Riverside encouraged us that the public sincerely enjoys watching this kind of racing. Modified stocks not only put on a great show for us last June, but they also shattered all existing speed records at the Raceway. Modifieds are truly the fast road racing stock cars in the world."

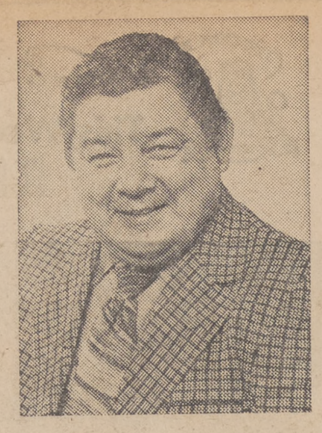
Grossmont Gridders Get All-S.C.C. Call

Although Grossmont College failed to place a single member of its 1977 football team on the all-South Coast Conference first unit, four Griffins did land positions on the second all - conference team picked.

Earning the second - team honor were guard Scot Buckles, center John Nikos, fullback Mark Chrostowski and defensive back Ron O'Bard. All but Chrostowski are sophomores.

Chrostowski led the Griffins in rushing with 500 yards and in scoring with 62 points.

TAKE FIVE



by John E. Wirges

Ray Kroc presented Oscar Gamble to the San Diego baseball press earlier this week and each writer present knew he was in the company of two millionaires.

Oscar's lovely wife Juanita gave it away. The first place she wanted to visit when she got to San Diego was Fashion Valley.

Women tend to put things in proper perspective. Baseball is a summer time sport. Fall and Winter are for shopping. That is an essential truth known to every woman.

And while Juanita is committing her constitutional right in the Gamble family, Oscar's signing a San Diego Padre contract gave meaningful definition to the club's player shopping list.

Oscar is a seasoned major leaguer despite being a mere sprite of 27 summers. He came up to the Philadelphia Phillies at the tender age of 20 and is honest enough to admit he might have developed faster if he had stayed in the minors a bit longer.

He learned his trade in the big time and got a good look at San Diego Stadium in the early days of his major league career.

"I always hit pretty good here," he said indicating Mission Valley's Sports Palace. "I think I hit something like .400 here one year."

That figures to lay fond thoughts in the mind of a man who will patrol one of the outer pasture positions for the Padres for the next six years.

Of course .400 really isn't expected of him. But something near .300 will do nicely. Gamble hit 31 home runs in the Chicago White Sox huge Cominsky Park this past season, drove in 83 runs and averaged a neat .294. Credentials of a bonifide blue chipper.

He brings a much needed left hand bat to the Padre's lineup and figures San Diego's smaller park will help boost the average.

Oscar's signing gives a real assist to Padre general manager Bob Fontaine's shopping list as Ray Kroc and company head off to Hawaii and the winter baseball meetings.

The Padres figure to make at least one major trade and perhaps more before toe touches rubber in the National League opener next April. Even if no trade comes out of the Hawaiian gathering rest assured the ground work for swappin' will have been well engineered on the shores of Waikiki.

A wild guess would place Dave Winfield on the line for a starting right-handed pitcher of proven talent. Time will tell, but don't be surprised if the Padres play an outfield of Gene Richards, George Hendrick and Oscar Gamble from left to right from opening day right on through the season.

"I have a good arm," says Gamble.

"A good right field arm?" he was asked.

"Yes." And a left handed, pull hitting bat to give Padre manager Alvin Dark four months of mentally bringing him up to bat with runners in scoring position. Pleasant dreams, Alvin.

Now that left handed hitting has been fulfilled, the next priority is a right handed pitcher, then a veteran third baseman, preferably a left handed swinger with power, and as long as we're shooting for the moon, a left handed hitting catcher.

Then with a healthy Randy Jones, and properly seasoned young arms attached to Bob Shirley and Bob Owchinko and the splendid relief talent of Rollie Fingers, look out pennant, here come the Padres.

Winter is the best part of the baseball season. Even the Padres can be wished up to pennant contention. Welcome aboard Oscar.

Chilean Middleweight Champ On Coliseum Card

The Chilean middleweight boxing champion, Julio Gomez of Santiago, will appear in a 10-round match in San Diego Friday against Antonio Leyva, a tough scrapper from Mexicali.

The fight will headline the card at the Coliseum at 15th and E sts. in downtown San Diego.

Bella fights out of the Jackie McCoy stable from which Little Red Lopez and Carlos Palomino also fights.

Heavyweight Lennie Provo of Oceanside is matched against Dawain Wiley, a rising slugger from L.A.

Two amatuer bouts with boxers of the Coliseum Youth Development program will round out the card.

Fights start at 8:15. Tickets are $5, $4 and $2.50.

Mariners Sign Three Southern Leaguers

Three players who performed for Mariner General Manager Bob Paine during the 1975-76 season at Roanoke, Va. (Southern League) have agreed to contract terms with San Diego's Mariners for the 1977-78 campaign.

Joining the Mariners are goaltender Brian Cousineau, right wing Randy Andreachuk and left wing Brian Bye. This brings to 4 the number of players under contract, earlier the Mariners satisfied veteran WHA performer Bob Sicinski.

"These players have all played very well for me in the past", stated Paine, "and I know that they are going to make a big contribution to this year's Mariner team."

A former teammate of Mariner coach Butch Barber at Tidewater (SHL) Cousineau was the Mariners top choice among goaltenders available in the Pacific League draft.

After turning pro with Port Huron in 1973-74, Cousineau spent the next 3 years in the SHL, also playing at Charlotte and Winston-Salem. While playing with Roanoke he limited league champion Charlotte to only nine goals in four games in a losing playoff effort in 1975, and he set a Southern League record in 1976 with 61 saves in a game while playing for Winston-Salem.

Was Number One

A former No. 1 draft choice of the Winnipeg Jets, Andreachuk has been hampered by injuries in his pro career, but he has displayed tremendous promise when he has been healthy. He scored 53 goals in parts of 2 seasons with Roanoke and was leading the Southern League in scoring last year before going out with a knee injury.

The 23-year-old is also associated with a bit of hockey lore he had little to shape . . . after he signed with Winnipeg, the Philadelphia Flyers traded his National League rights to St. Louis for goaltender Wayne Stephenson.

After training camp trials with the WHA Mariners in 1974 and a hort stay with the big club in 1975-76, Brian Bye figures to be a prominent member of the Mariners 1977-78 plans.

Bye scored 15 goals and 29 points in part-time duty with the NAHL Syracuse Blazers in 1974-75 and notched 14 goals and 49 points for Roanoke the following year. He had already matched his professional high goal production in Greensboro the following year when the club bellied-up with the rest of the Southern League.

Capable of playing all three forward positions, Bye was voted to the Southern League all-defensive team and was named by the coaches as the best penalty killer in the league.

Mariners Hockey Camp opens December 15, Paine said.

Griffin Cagers To Meet E. L.A. In Game Tonight

Coach Felix Rogers' Grossmont basketball team will carry a 2-0 record into a busy week of non-conference action.

The Griffins were to play at Southwestern College Tuesday in Chula Vista before taking part in the Gene Autry Classic Thursday through Saturday at Buena Park's Cypress College.

Grossmont will face East Los Angeles College in Thursday's tournament opener. The Griffins defeated the same Huskie team, 95-59, last Saturday at Grossmont.

In the win over East LA, the Griffins connected on 42 of 68 shots from the floor for 62 per cent, including 24 of 36 in the second half (67 percent). Freshman Tom Best led the way with 23 points, including hitting 10 of 17 tries from the floor. Sophomore Dirk Oliver added 17 points and 12 rebounds, while sophomore reserve forward Rick Wolfe bounced off the bench to hit six straight field goals for 12 points.

On the boards, Grossmont prevailed 50-29. Freshman Mark Wallace backed up Oliver's 12 caroms by collecting 10 of his own.

Guards Tony Lewis and Scott Ludwig, both freshmen, guided the fast-breaking Griffin offense by charting nine and five assists, respectively. Oliver added five assists.

Those attending the game are encouraged to bring along a new, unwrapped toy and to drop it into one of the Marines' collection barrels.

The toys need not be large or expensive, any new toy will do.

Please bring a toy as the Marines cannot accept cash donations.

Owensboro Wins Roostertails; S.D. Gets Finale

San Diego has lost its' bid for the 1978 Unlimited Hydroplane Gold Cup to Owensboro, Kentucky at the Unlimited Commission meeting in Portland, Oregon.

$110,000 was the winning figure submitted by Owensboro in the closed bidding system. The bid won against those submitted by San Diego and Detroit.

"We tried," Sam Parisa, Chairman of the Board of Governor's for the San Diego Race, said. "We were simply outbid by the largest bid ever received for the Gold Cup in the sports' history.

The Gold Cup Race is the highlight race on the Unlimited Circuit each year and carries with it national prestige and television coverage.

"Owensboro's representatives at the meeting vowed a committment not only to their City, but to the whole circuit and the sport itself," Parisa. "A new requirement is that all entrant boats to have attempted to qualify in a previous race."

"The prize package for 1978 was increased by more than $70,000 for the circuit," Parisa said. "This will make a total annual package of over $100,000 plus the Gold Cup."

"The increase," he added, "will greatly enhance competition, bring in larger fields at the races and provide better racing."

Another change the Commission recommended was that all race courses on the circuit be uniform and, like San Diego, run a two and one half mile course.

Dates were also set for next year's races with San Digeo again holding the 'grand finale' race on September 17.

Dave Campbell to Join Coleman on Padre Radio

Dave Campbell, former major league infielder/outfielder has been named to the broadcast team for the San Diego Padres, it was announced today by Ballard Smith, executive vice president.

"We feel Dave's knowledge of the inside workings of the play on the field will add much to the excitement of the broadcasts," said Ballard.

Campbell will be joining Jerry Coleman in the booth when the Padres open the spring training season on March 8th in Yuma, against the California Angels. Dave's voice is not new to Padra fans as he did color on a few of the televised games and assisted with the radio play-by-play while recuperating from surgery during the 1972 season.

"We anticipate a new personality and enthusiasm will add to the appeal of the radio reports of the game," Ray Kroc, president of the club, added.

Campbell played for Detroit in 1967-69 and came to the San Diego Padres by way of a trade to Detroit of Joe Niekro in December, 1969. Being very versatile, he played both infield and outfield but normally was a mainstay at second base. He played in only 33 games in the 1972 season after a severe injury to the achilles tendon put him out of action the rest of the season.

He spent three full years with the Padres before moving on to St. Louis in June of 1973. That same summer he went to the Houston Astros in a trade for Tommie Agee.

Retiring from baseball after the 1974 season, Dave reported to KCST-TV in San Diego where he worked as cameraman and reporter and later as sportcaster until August of 1975 when he moved to KSDO Radio as sports announcer.

In December of 1975, Campbell elected to again change careers to return to his first love, baseball, and accepted the position of manager of the Padres Double A farm club in Amarillo, Texas. "I am really looking forward to this opportunity," he said, "and will do my best to bring the fans all the excitement of Padre baseball."

Campbell was born in Manistee, Michigan in January of 1942 and carries a Bachelor of Science Degree in Education from the University of Michigan. He and wife, Diane, and two daughters presently make their home at Scripps Ranch.

Sluggers in Test For AA Golf Crown

PHOENIX — Quick, trivia fans, who hit 318 home runs in 1977? The answer? Nine outstanding stars who'll be competing in the 12th annual American Airlines Golf Classic.

Tournament chairman Randall Malin said Jeff Burroughs, Greg Lukinski, Mike Schmidt, Graig Nettles, Bobby Bonds, Steve Garvey, Reggie Smith, Johnny Bench and Richie Zisk will perform in this unique football-baseball partner tournament.

The 54-hole event will be conducted Jan. 27-29 at the Registry Resort and McCormick Ranch Country Club outside Scottsdale.

Burroughs, Braves outfielder from Long Beach who hit 41 homers; Luzinski, Phillies (39), Schmidt, Phillies (388), Bonds, Angels (37); Nettles, Yankees (37); Garvey, Dodgers (33), Smith, Dodgers (32), Bench, Reds (31) and Zisk, Rangers (30) are all veterans of this event.

Two are former champions. Burroughs won in 1974 in San Juan, Puerto Rico, with Bob Anderson, Denver Broncos running back. Nettles won in 1976 at the Canyon Club in Palm Springs when he and Bob Tucker, then the New York Giants tight end, established a tournament record with net 55-55-55—165.

Malin said there will also be some singles and doubles hitters participating.

Outdoors & Travel

By E. L. "Buck" Rogers

The world's most remote fishing lodge is located deep in the Amazon jungle, hundreds of miles from traffic lights and jangling telephones.

Yet, it's as modern as anything we've got in these parts. And it's as easy to get there as the average Canadian fly-in camp.

The place is called El Dorado Lodge, and it's named after the chain of clear lakes on which it is located. Dorado means gold in Spanish, and, as legend has it, a cache of Indian gold is buried in these lakes.

But I'm not a treasure hunter, and neither are the other Norte Americanos who safari to El Dorado each winter. We're more interested in the big golden-hued fish which inhabit these lakes, a fish which we call the peacock bass.

The peacock bass is a helluva fish. It has much the same habits as our largemouth bass and, despite its colorful attire, about the same body conformity. It is leaner and meaner, though, and grows to a larger size. The current world record for the species was set here a couple of years ago and weigh 19½ pounds. Larger fish inhabit these waters, though. The local witch doctor says they exceed 18 kilos (that's 40 pounds) but I think he's understating the subject. I saw one which was six inches between the eyes, and even for a Missourian, that's a big fish.

Two years ago I had one of those bass strip a hundred yards of 20-pound-test line off an Amfassador reel,, and I have yet to return from a fishing trip there without breaking a rod, losing half of my lures, or using up a spool of extra line. Earlier this year I was successful in boating a 16½ pounder and, considering the species of fish, this was quite an accomplishment.

The lodge is situated on the top of a hill overlooking one of the lakes and has a total guest capacity of 24 people. Rooms have all modern amenities. There's a bar, dining room, even a swimming pool. Outboard-powered dugout canoes shuttle guests from one fishing hole to another, and the guides, who don't speak much English, do a first-class job of keeping everybody happy. The food is great, and, whether you believe me or not, there are no mosquitoes.

This Amazon fishin' hole is reached by a two-hour charter flight from Bogota, Colombia, which in turn is serviced by daily flights from the U.S. by Braniff International. Flying time from Miami to Bogota is less than three hours, which indicates that South America isn't as far away as most of us think.

The best time to go fishing down there, incidentally, is when our driveways are piled high with snow, and our bass are hibernating for the winter.

Makes sense, doesn't it?

The marathon is the chief fundraising event for the club in preparation for next spring's season. The club has high hopes for the 1978 season.

Askew, who lives at 9441 Crest, S.V., was in his residence when the loss occurred.

Waterbed Firm Offers Newer Concept Decor

A new dimension in waterbeds is unfolding at Claudia's Waterbeds in Lemon Grove. Up to this point in time, waterbeds have affected the appearance of water-filled bogs surrounded by wood.

Frame and headboard styles were limited to generally available models, hence the sameness of waterbeds.

Now, however, Claudia's Waterbeds offers headboards and frames that relieve the eye and enhance personal satisfaction.

Claudia has custom-crafted her headboards and frames to reflect those tastes that have been neglected.

Instead of falling asleep on a waterbed, you can now sleep in some of California's most fantasized - about vacation spots; the Sequoia forests, the airy deserts, and Yosemite Park.

The method used to create these scenes is intriguing unto itself. Claudia, as an artist, sketches her visual scenes. These scenes are then transferred to a complementary wood base.

This wood base is then cut to the specifications of the sketch. This cut design is then transferred to Claudia's headboards and frames. The result is a breathtaking scene of California's back country.

She combines these custom works of art with the same great components found at other waterbed retailers. Standard frames and headboards are also available. The firm is located at the corner of Broadway and Sweetwater in Lemon Grove.

Politicians To Turn Tables on Newsmen In SDSU Program

It was bound to happen that elected officials would turn tables on newsmen.

The forum is sponsored by the Society of Professional Journalists-Sigma Delta Chi.

The public is invited to hear the officials as well as address questions to the press.

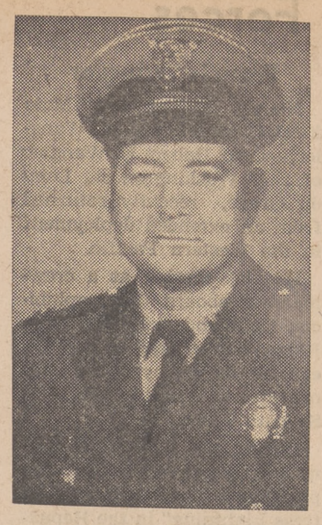
Car Canibalized

Auto parts are becoming more desirable.

M. N. Haney of 1351 Walbollen, Spring Valley, was an unwilling party to this philosophy after which he told sheriff's deputies that the grille and headlights of his pickup truck were removed while he was sleeping in his residence.

The parts taken, he said, would cost $300 to replace.

Ask Your C.H.P.



CHP Capt. C.M. Douglas

Last week's question was about mo-peds. If you have a question, no matter how insignificant it may appear to you, ask it. It could save you a citation, or even your life.

Address your questions in care of this newspaper and please allow three weeks for your reply to appear.

This week's question:

I was stopped recently for transporting a "dune buggy" in the back of my pickup truck. I didn't think I had to register the dune buggy if the wheels weren't touching the ground. What exactly does the law state?

This week's answer:

No person shall operate, transport or leave standing any off-highway motor vehicle subject to identification under this code unless the vehicle is identified under the provisions of Chapter 1 Division 16.5 of the California Vehicle Code.

In simple terms, vehicles not registered for regular highway use must be identified by the DMV which will issue an off-highway identification certificate and special sticker upon payment of $15 fee.

The certificate (or facsimile) must be kept with the vehicle when it is operated or transported, and the ID sticker must be clearly displayed whenever the vehicle is operated or transported. The only exception is a motorcycle used exclusively in closed course racing.

Cranston Seeks to Bridge Gap in Medicare Coverage

U.S. Senator Alan Cranston is pushing Congress to correct a deficiency in the medicare system that leaves thousands of elderly persons without adequate hospitalization and medical insurance.

Three times since 1972, Cranston has succeeded in getting through the Senate legislation that would enable people who are over 60 — but who have not yet reached the Social Security age of 65 — to "buy in" to the medicare system.

But each time, the House has refused to go along.

"I hope this fourth effort, if successful, will convince the other body of the Senate's commitment to bring better health care to our senior citizens," Cranston said in introducing his latest bill (S. 1993) to amend the Social Security Act.

Under Cranston's bill, which is co-sponsored by Senators Claiborne Pell (D., R.I.) and Richard Stone (D., Fla.), certain elderly persons not now covered by medicare's hospital and supplementary medical insurance plans would be able to obtain coverage by paying "equal-to-cost" premiums.

Those premiums initially would be the equivalent of rates for individuals over the age of 65, Cranston explained.

"Because these elderly retirees would pay their own pay," Cranston said, "their joining the medicare system would not result in any additional cost to the taxpayer or burden on the federal budget."

Cranston's interest in the issue is as a subcommittee chairman of the Senate Human Resources Committee and a member of its subcommittee on Aging.

"The need for this legislation stems from the fact that medicare eligibility for most people does not begin until age 65," Cranston added. "Yet many older persons lose their group health coverage when they retire before the age of 65."

Many of them are unable to buy private hospitalization insurance "at any price" because of their age, Cranston reiterated. Those who do find a company that will insure them pay "prohibitive" premiums for "extremely limited and inadequate coverage", he said.

Many people are forced to forego any coverage whatever, gambling that they will stay healthy at least until they reach 65."

Cranston's bill would permit you to buy into medicare if you are 62 or over and receiving social security benefits.

"There really is no justification for that three-year gap where you are eligible for early social security retirement at 62 but can't get medicare coverage until you're 65," Cranston said.

The bill would also permit you to buy in if you are between the ages of 60 and 64 and:

—Your spouse is over 65 and enrolled in medicare, or

—You are a divorced mother or widow caring for a child under 18 who is receiving social security payments based on a worker's record, or

—You are a dependent parent of a deceased worker, or

—You are retired on social security disability.

Cranston's bill also would eliminate the present two-year waiting period for persons in this last category.

The bill would require persons buying in pay premiums for both part A (hospitalization) and part B (ambulatory care) "so the individual will be able to use the most cost effective and appropriate means of treatment".

Cranston added this provision is also designed to deter "over-utilization of the most expensive kinds of in-hospital services".

Old man winter is right around the corner. He's bringing along shorter days and longer, chillier nights. That means we'll all be inside more. We'll be curling up on the couch to watch TV instead of going out for an after dinner walk. We'll be using more lights and more heat. We'll be stringing up decorative lighting. We'll be baking fruitcake and gingerbread. It all adds up to higher energy bills.

You can't help using more energy during the winter season. But you can keep your energy bills within reason. And we want you to know how. Check the calendar for some ideas to help in the four areas where you use the most energy: Heat, Hot Water, Lights and Meals. There's plenty of room for cutting out waste.

For even more helpful tips on how you can save energy during the winter months read the pamphlet in your next SDG&E bill. Or write or call SDG&E Energy Information.

YOU AND YOUR PET

By Robert L. Stear, D.V.M.

Coccidiosis

Each year dog and cat owners purchase large quantities of worming compounds to control intestinal parasites in their pets. Often pet owner decide worms are present by observing their pets eating grass, rubbing their hindquarters along the ground, or suffering from diarrhea.

However, these symptoms can be characteristic of all sorts of diseases, including indigestion, protozoa infections and others.

The only reliable indication of a worm infection is identification of the worm or its eggs in the feces. Your veterinarian is best qualified to do this by a miscroscopic examination.

Coccidiosis is a major parasitic infection often mistaken for worm infestation. It is caused not by worms but by tiny one-celled animals called coccidia, that invade the small intestine of young animals and destroy tissue as they multiply.

Coccidia thrive in dirty, overcrowded and damp living quarters where animal feces are allowed to accumulate. Young animals can ingest the parasite eggs as they groom their feet after walking across a dirty run. Pets also become infected by swallowing eggs or larvae deposited in food by flies and other insects.

Once infected pets show symptoms of coddidiosis that are frequently confused with those of other intestinal diseases. Chronic diarrhea (often blood-tinged) is the key sign. The diarrhea causes the pet to become dehydrated, with listless eyes and no appetite. In more severe cases, the pet may show cold symptoms along with a slight fever.

Should you recognize the warning signs of the disease, medical treatment should be provided by your veterinarian. Haphazard administration of home remedies could worsen the condition. Worming your pet certainly is of no benefit.

Many pets die each year when their owners treat the disease improperly or delay seeking treatment from a veterinarian. The proper medication must be provided in a dose determined on the basis of your pet's age, weight and general condition.

If the pet survives the primary infection without treatment, it can become a carrier for the disease. Suspected carriers must be treated and their quarters and runs cleaned with a disinfectant.

Strict sanitation is the major factor in controlling and preventing coccidiosis. Kennels should be dry and clean; runs should receive sun part of each day and feces removed daily.

Shaded, moist ground, although comfortable in warm weather, increases survival of commidia eggs and is not a good location for your pet's living quarters.

Coccidia have successfully developed parasitic relationships with a number of warm-blooded animals. Cattle, sheep, poultry and pets are all attacked by different varietes of coccidia.

Dogs and cats are susceptible to infestation by three principal forms of the parasite. Recovery from an attack by one form does not offer immunity to attacks by other forms.

If you feel your pet has contracted coccidiosis, it is recommended you contact your veterinarian promptly. Your pet's weakened condition will make it more susceptible to secondary infections such as pneumonia or distemper.

Young People's Concerts Scheduled December 9-10

All grade school children are invited to "celebrate the holiday season in music" at the second series of Young People's Concerts December 9 and 10 presented by the San Diego Symphony Orchestra.

Music to be performed at these Friday and Saturday programs include selections by Mozart, Handel, Stravinsky, Bizet and Ives-Schuman. The audience will also participate in a fun Christmas carol "sing-along".

All three concerts will take place in the Civic Theatre. The Friday program is already sold-out, but there are two performances on Saturday —the first at 11:30 a.m.—with good seats still available for both.

The concerts are sponsored by the Women's Committee of the Orchestra Association.

In advance of each concert, the Junior League of San Diego, Inc., and the Women's Committee sponsor an in-school music education program where 40 volunteers visit classrooms to prepare the students for the upcoming concert.

Tickets for the two December 10 Young People's Concerts are still available at $1.25 for children and $2.50 for adults.

Any adult bringing five or more children will be admitted free.

RSVP Volunteers Will Be Feted

Over 1,000 senior volunteers who have given their time and talents to their communities through RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) will be honored in three programs during December.

The East County event will be at 1:45 p.m. Thursday, December 8, at Naranca Elementary School, 1030 Naranca ave., El Cajon.

North County seniors will be recognized Monday.

The South Bay and S.D. program will be December 13.

RSVP is a federal ACTION program administered locally by United Way of San Diego County. It recruits and places individuals 60 years and older for volunteer assignments in schools, recreation centers, hospitals, nursing homes and nutrition centers throughout San Diego County.

Boats Wanted for 'Parade of Lights'

Boaters are invited to enter the Mission Bay Boat Parade of Lights scheduled for Sunday, December 11.

The parade will start at 7 p.m. and follow a 5 mile route along the shoreline of Mission Bay. The lighting of Sea World's giant "Christmas Tree" will be at 9 p.m. when the parade ends at the N. Ingraham st. bridge.

All boats must be illuminated, decorated and under power.

Best viewing areas will be along Riviera and Crown Point Shores, the western side of Fiesta Island, and Ski Beach on East Vacation Isle.

There is no registration fee and entry blanks may be obtained by contacting the Mission Bay Associates' office at 276-2800.

The event is free and open to everyone.

Fear Eliminated in Mobilehome Parks

By Howard E. Arney

Fifty years ago a poet wrote "Let me live in a house by the side of the road, and be a friend to man." Today that same poet would have written "Let me live in a quiet Mobile Home Park, where I'm not afraid to walk the streets in the dark."

A sad commentary on today's culture, but true. If you want further proof of family neighborhoods, just drive through one — Joe Blow is rerage but various and sundry parts are scattered across the lawn. They have been there for weeks — you have that special feeling that neither Joe, the car, nor the neighborhood will ever be the same again. Next door to Joe, the rock roll is drowning out even the sounds of the jet plane overhead. No continuity in upkeep seems to be prevalent as some houses look weatherworn and old before their years. Generations of kids and dogs have worked their vengence on once proud shrubs and lawns.

Mobile home living is secure, serene, and social. Streets and recreation halls are immaculate. Owners take pride in their mobile homes and grounds and are friendly and courteous. Rules of decency are observed and a pride of being a mobilehome owner is reflected in the growing number of mobilehome parks.

Yet, Mr. Poet, if you were alive today, you would see the world has changed and that security, peace and serenity lie within the boundaries of a mobilehome park.

Part-time Employments Holds Sups Attention

A request for developing a proposal for part-time positions and alternatives in County employee scheduling has been approved with a 4-0 vote of the San Diego County Board of Supervisors.

In order to implement 1977-78 budget guidelines, the Board agreed that the County must become knowledgeable about alternatives and the financial impact of part-time employment and should obtain data from private enterprise and other governmental entities that are using part-time employees.

Supervisors directed the Department of Civil Service and Personnel to execute a trainer-consultant agreement to provide data for the budget guidelines on part-time employment and evaluate present use of part-time employees. The cost of the study is not to exceed $10,000.

The Board also directed the department to allocate some comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) personnel to develop, with the consultant, goals and procedures to implement this program.

Ray Kroc Interview On KPBS Teevee

What do hamburgers, the Padres and community leadership all have in common? — San Diego's Ray Kroc.

A personal and rare interview of Kroc by KPBS-TV's Gloria Penner will be aired Friday, December 2 at 7 p.m. on Channel 15.

Controversial and colorful, Ray Kroc shares his views on the problems and successes of community leaders in San Diego. In 1975, Kroc was named Headliner of the Year by the San Diego Press Club for his impact on the local community.

By purchasing the San Diego Padre franchise in 1974, Kroc saved the club for San Diego as they were packed up and headed for Washington, D.C. Kroc's experiences with the Padres and his opinion of San Diego's future as a sports "town" are included in the discussion. Kroc's greatest visibility, however, has stemmed from his role as the developer of McDonald's. He began McDonald's in 1953, and in 1975, McDonald's Corp. had developed into $2.5 billion business.

The controversy which has surrounded Kroc in his efforts to develop both the Padres and McDonald's will be related — from Kroc's point of view —in Gloria Penner Interviews Ray Kroc.

The program repeats December 3, at 2 p.m.

New Changes Listed In Social Security System

Social security tax increases mandated by law for 1978 were listed by James B. Cardwell, Commissioner of Social Security.

1. The social security tax rate, now 5.85 percent of taxable wages for employees and employers each, will increase to 6.05 percent in 1978. The tax rate for the self-employed will increase from 7.9 to 8.1 percent of taxable earning in self-employment. An estimated 110 million workers whose work is covered by social security will be affected in 1978.

2. The maximum amount of earnings that are taxable for social security and that count toward benefits will increase automatically from $16,500 in 1977 to $17,700 in 1978. About 19 million workers who will earn above $16,500 in 1978 will be affected by this increase in the "earnings base."

Also, the maximum amount that a beneficiary can earn in 1978 and still get all his social security checks will increase to $3,240 under the automatic increase provisions of the law, Cardwell said. The 1977 figure is $3,000.

People who earn more than $3,240 in 1978 may still get some social security benefits, but every two dollars they earn above $3,240 may cause a reduction of one dollar in their social security benefits for the year. No matter how much they earn in 1978, they can get their full benefit for any month in which they do not earn more than $270 in wages (up from $250 in 1977) and do not perform substantial services in self-employment. The increase will provide additional benefits of about $160 million in 1978 to 1.4 million people who earn while they get social security benefits.

Up to Date with Wages

Cardwell said the increase in the earnings base and in the retirement test exempt amount are determined by a formula in the law designed to keep these amounts up to date as average wages increase throughout the nation.

The 1978 increases are based specifically on a 6.9 percent increase in average taxable wages from the first quarter of 1975 to the first quarter of 1976.

"In return for the increase in taxes resulting from the increase in the earnings base," Cardwell said, "these 19 million affected workers will have greater protection because a larger amount of their earnings will be credited toward benefits than before. This will mean higher benefits for them and their families in the event of retirement, disability, or death than would have been possible without the increase to $17,700."

Under the law, these automatic increases can take effect only after a year in which there has been an automatic increase in social security benefits. This requirement was met by a 5.9 percent automatic cost-of-living increase in benefits that took effect for June 1977.

The increase in the tax rate from 5.85 to 6.05 percent was written into law in 1973. All of the increase will go to the Medicare hospital insurance share of the tax rate. President Carter has proposed to Congress that half of the increase be shifted to the cash benefits program as part of his plan to bolster the financing of monthly social security benefits.

Increased Yield

The combined increases in the tax rates and the earnings base will produce an estimated $5.8 billion in additional social security / Medicare revenues from 1978 earnings. About $3.4 billion of the new revenue is attributable to the tax rate increase and $2.4 billion to the earnings base increase. Total 1978 revenue for Old-Age, Survivors, Disability and Hospital Insurance (OASDHI) is estimated at $11.5 billion.

The tax increase for the 91 million workers earning $16,500 or less will range up to a maximum of $33 in 1978. The increase for workers earning more than $16,500 will range up to a maximum of $105.60 for a wage earner and up to $130.20 for a self-employed worker. The maximum social security tax payable in 1978 (by an estimated 16 million workers) will be $1,070.85 or a wage earner and $1,433.70 for a self-employed worker, compared to the 1977 maximums of $965.25 and $1,303.50, respectively.

PROGRESS ON FLOOD CONTROL — H. E. Horton, chairman of the Spring Valley Action Group, expresses pleasure following the announcement that a suit had been filed against the Army Corps of Engineers regarding their flood control program.
His group will probably support the action, he said.

Suit Against Flood-Feds May Ease S.V. Problem

A suit challenging the constitutionality of restrictive land use provisions, the validity of punitive sanctions under the Federal Flood Insurance Program and the federal government's authority to compel the enactment of specific state and local laws was filed in the U.S. District Court in Washington, D.C. by 68 organizations throughout the country. Much of the valley part of Spring Valley will be affected by the outcome.

The suit filed by Flood Insurance Litigation Coalition, which lists scores of costly injustices to state and local government units and property owners seeks injunctions against the Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1968 and its amendments of 1969 and 1973.

Under the law the government was granted vast powers to invoke economic sanctions against those communities or individuals who could not, or declined to, participate in the flood insurance porgram.

Although an amendment to the law was adopted in June to soften its impact, landowners in non-participating communities will still lose access to VT, FHA and SBA loans as well as disaster relief during floods.

Inaccuracies Noted

According to the plaintiffs the law is based on inaccurate and outdated designations of flood areas, places an unfair economic burden on communities, and does not allow for appeal from flood hazard designations, thus denying affected individuals and organizations due process of law as required by the constitution.

The suit, which is to protect, preserve and perpetuate the rights of private property ownership, was filed against the Department of Housing and Urban Development and its Secretary Patricia Roberts Harris, Federal Insurance Administrator J. Robert Hunter and Assistant Administrator for Flood Insurance Richard W. Krimm.

It challenges the constitutionality of the Federal Flood Insurance Program under the Fifth, Tenth and Fourteenth Amendment, and seeks pre liminary injunctions against phases of the program which the plaintiffs consider illegal. It also tries to have those provisions declared unconstitutional which set up a "mandatory land use control scheme under the guise of protecting people from flood damages".

S.V. Property Involved

The Spring Valley Citizens Action Group, headed by H. E. Horton, a property manager of his own property said that he thought the suit fullyjustified.

The group is concerned about $55 million worth of proprety extending from Eucalyptus Park, Casa de Oro, Brookside, and Spring Valley down to the Sweetwater Valley.

"Because the Federal Insurance Administration has called our property a 'disaster-prone area,' it has devaluated it dramatically and prohibits any construction at all in designated part of the area," Horton said.

"When local people try to sell their property, they cannot get anywhere near market value because FIA has classed it as a disaster area.

"It is not a disaster area," Horton said. "There has never been a flood disaster there. Even archeologists of San Diego State University, who have studied the soil of generations back, find no evidence of flooding as far back as they can go — and their studies go back 9,000 years. It isn't likely that a flood disaster will ever occur here.

"Study-after-study backs up our evidence that no flooding has ever occurred in the Spring Valley area. Our Washington delegation, the S.D. County Board of Supervisors, County Flood Control Authorties, and our lawmakers are getting up in arms over the artibrary determinations arrived at by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers who have used erroneous maps and data to enforce their determination," Horton said the Wildan Corp, an engineering firm, has supplied this evidence.

One Room School Revival

Bancroft Community School Opens Produce Center for Area Senior Citizens

By Fred Ash

The old idea of the one room schoolhouse—the center of community activity with box socials and spelling bees has made a come-back.

At the Bancroft Community School in Spring Valley, Community School Director Pat Stewart has taken the mystic of the one room school and adapted it to the needs of a modern day generation.

At Bancroft every Friday, an organization known as "Scoop" brings in fresh fruits and vegetables to sell to area senior citizens at 30 to 50 percent below prices found in the supermarkets.

Scoop is a non-profit organization which runs about 30 centers around the county which sell produce to senior citizens, 50 years and older.

The group deals directly with local produce farmers, trucks produce to the center in a vehicle donated by the U.S. Government, and sells the produce at cost to senior citizens.

According to Scoop worker George Greenhouse the Scoop operation is in losing battle financially but continues to thrive and grow new outlets despite setbacks. The group also takes donations to help defer some of the costs of running the operation.

Friday at Bancroft School, tomatoes, for example, sold for about 34 cents a pound, about half of the current supermarket price.

Greenhouse said in September, Scoop, through a deal with the farmers, was able to sell fresh tomatoes at a mere 10 cents a pound.

"It is just a matter of the current market prices with the farmers," Greenhouse added.

After price negotiations with farmers and purchases are made, the Scoop organization trucks produce to its warehouse, the old fire station at 4704 College in San Diego for distribution to the area centers.

Bancroft Community School Director Pat Stewart said she was "elated" with the Scoop operation at Bancroft and added area senior citizens had responded favorably to the program.

Last Friday more than 30 seniors from the Bancroft area showed up to take advantage of the produce bargains.

The project is open every Friday in the Bancroft School Auditorium, 8805 Tyler street, from 2:30 to 4 p.m.

The Scoop program will not deliver at Bancroft Auditorium on December 23 and December 30.
